

MONEY SAVED!

Practical Economists are wide awake to the great money-saving opportunities continually offered at this store. The phenominally low prices in the various departments bring forth an increase of customers every day in the week. The Clothing sold here passes direct from the makers to the consumers without middlemen's profits. This form of modern methods in retailing places the goods at Bed Rock Manufacturer's Wholesale Prices on the retail distributive plan and widens the scope to figure for volumes of trade at the smallest possible prices.

Money earned by saving never comes easier. A poor or inferior article is dear at any price. The great store is filled with the best clothing we know how to make America, which is a positive 16 to 1 should drive out gold and substitute silver and paper redeemable silver in its place we should have a single silver standard and actual monometallism. Instead of both gold and silver as we do now larger amounts than ever before in history, we should instantly expel the more valuable metal from the country and make the other the sole basis of our currency. We have now practically bimetallic—the use of both metals; we should have then practical monometallism—the use of only one metal for money. This is neither speculation nor prophecy, but a conclusion based on facts established by the experience of all nations in all ages. Get the speech and read it. It is interesting reading. It will well repay perusal. All who wish to be posted should study it. It is a great speech.

Morning Glories.
O, dainty daughters of the dawn, most delicate of flowers,
How fitly do ye come to deck day's most delicious hours!
Awakened by morning's earliest breath, your fragile cups unfold
Before the light has clef the sky or edged the world with gold.

Before luxurious butterflies and moths are yet astir,
Before the careless breeze has snapped the leaf hung gossamer,
While speared dewdrops, yet unquaffed by thirsty insect thieves,
Border with rows of diamonds the edges of the leaves.

Do drink from day's o'erflowing brim, nor ever dream of noon,
With bashful nod ye greet the sun, whose flattery scorches soon,
Your trumpets trembling to the touch of humming bird and bee
A tender trepidation sweet and fair timidity.

To flower in all the garden hath so wide a choice of hue.
The deepest purple dyes are yours, the tenderest tints of blue,
While some are colorless as light, some flushed incarnadine,
And some are clouded crimson, like a goblet stained with wine.

The Bright Side.
Lookin on the bright side—
That's the way to go.
Bet you it's the right side,
Summer time or snow.
Nothin much in grievin—
Keeps you in the groove.
It's a man's believin
Makes the mountains move.

Clouds is got a light side;
All the bells'll chime—
Lookin on the bright side
Gits there every time.
